WORKSHOP with Laura Agustin, Visiting Professor in Gender Studies and Migration

September 15 / 16 / 17
9 – 17 h

Open to PhD students, researchers and Post-docs in Gender Studies

Title: “Migration, Feminism and the Sex Industry”

Migration has transformed feminists' ideological conflict about the meaning of prostitution. From being a two-sided debate about whether 'sex work is work' or 'violence against women', the discussion now must consider migration policies that favour 'highly skilled', white-collar and technical professionals over those willing to take less prestigious jobs in the informal sector, including the sex industry.

Researchers working in the realm of migration and sex work and wishing to present a paper (15 minutes, followed by a 30 minutes discussion) are asked to send a title and an abstract before August 15 to: claudia.howald@unine.ch

Registration compulsory, deadline: August 15. Registration: claudia.howald@unine.ch .
